

After a hard day of work at Macy's, Emily enjoys getting nice and cozy on her couch and watches television. She is invested in a TV show that she can't stop thinking about.

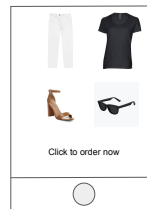

As Emily watches her favorite show, she sees one of the TV stars wearing an outfit that she loves and envies. She wants to order it but doesn't know what brand of clothing it is, leaving her only one option...

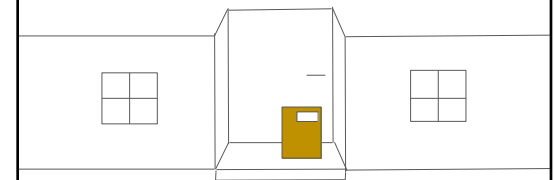

Emily takes out her phone and uses her handy dandy clothing scanner app. She simply takes a picture of the clothes she wishes to know more about and waits.

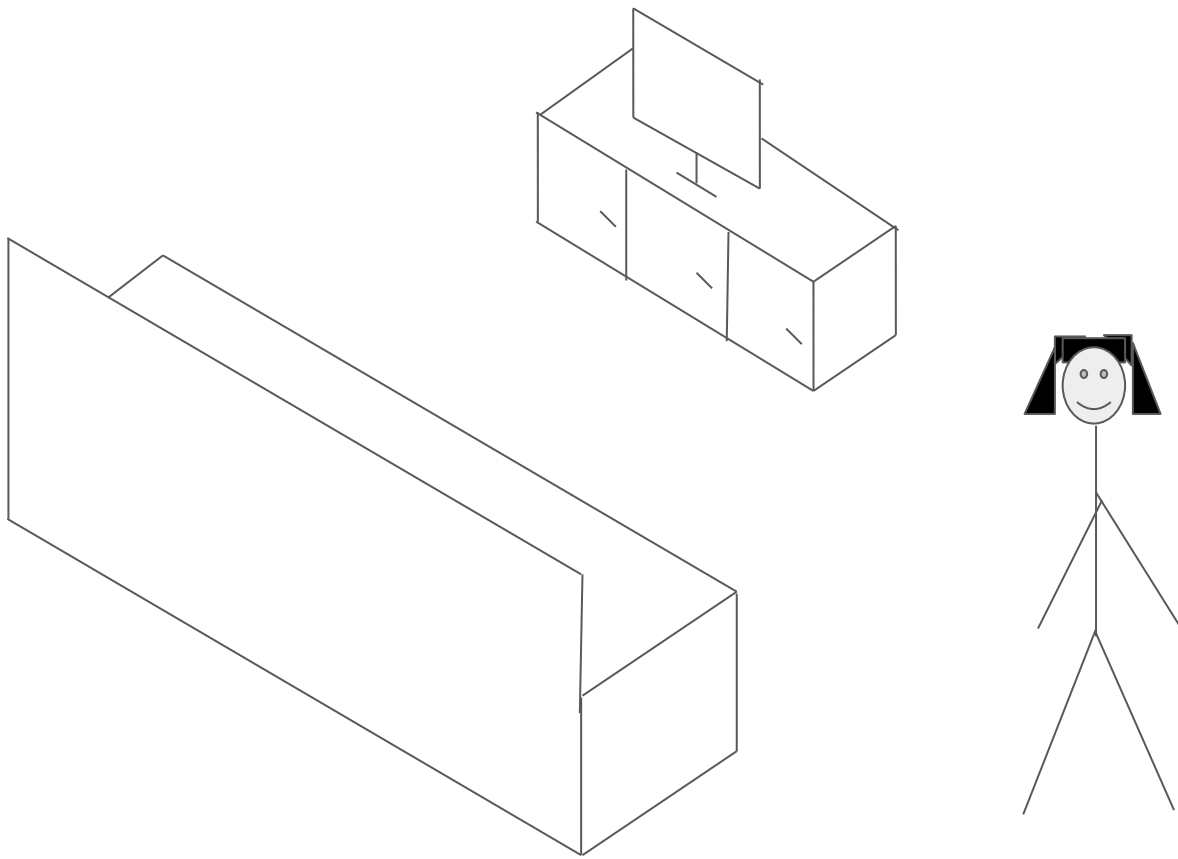

In a matter of seconds, everything that Emily needs to know about the clothes appear on her phone ... the brand, color options, available sizes, and the online stores that have it in stock!

Emily has the option of ordering items individually, or she can purchase them all together as a package deal with a discount. She orders her new clothes and waits anxiously for them to arrive in the mail.

While Emily is hard at work at Macy's a few weeks later, her package has arrived at her front door! She gets a notification through her clothing scanner app that her package has arrived and she couldn't be more ecstatic to try them on when she gets home.
